Fire officials close mission

Founders uncertain of future

By Scott Kelly
 Staff writer

The Jesus' Place mission has been closed, but not by choice.

On Friday, Granite City officials closed the 1900 State St. mission for safety reasons.

The Rev. Larry Gibson, pastor, said only he is allowed in the building. Everyone else is shut out of the mission and the church.

"They said we're not in compliance with the rules and regulations that apply to old buildings," Gibson said. "They never gave us a chance to bring it up to code." The mission moved to 1900 State in May.

County and state officials told Gibson the building was fine, he said.

Granite City Fire Chief Keith Talley, who shut the mission down Friday, gave the following account in a written statement:

"At approximately 8:30 a.m. Wednesday morning, City Building and Zoning Administrator Glen Hollis, City Inspector Vince Scrum, Assistant Fire Chief Jim Brawley and I inspected Jesus' Place located at 1900 State St.," Talley said in the statement.

"I have five freezers full of food I can't distribute."

Rev. Larry Gibson
 pastor, Jesus' Place

"The inspection revealed that the building is in generally unsafe condition and contains violations of the 1996 BOCA National Fire Prevention Code. A determination was made after sympathetic but serious consideration between myself and Mr. Hollis to allow only the chapel area to remain open for religious services only, and only after certain safety concerns were complied with," he stated.

"Those compliance issues are itemized and on file in the Fire Chief's Office and the Building and Zoning office."

"Around 4:30 p.m. on Thursday I stopped at the location and found work being done and the building being occupied in areas not specified." (See MISSION, Page 2A)

City grabs up more land for development

By Scott Cousins

Several properties have been annexed into the city of Madison.

One of the annexations will be included in the city's new tax increment financing district. The other two properties — along Madison Avenue — will also be for commercial development.

The council on Tuesday also approved an easement for the construction of a forced-main required for commercial development along Ohio Street near Gateway Midwest Truck Plaza.

An area of less than 60 acres just north of Bend Road and west of Highway 203 will be part of the city's new TIF district. Property in the area has several owners, including the city of Madison. City Attorney Casper Nighohossian said the TIF boundaries had been finalized that day, and a public hearing on the district would probably be in early November.

parcels at 1901 Fourth St. and 1902 Fifth St., the Fifth Turn Tavern and an adjoining lot.

Both properties will come in to the city zoned B-4 (limited business district).

The council also approved an easement to construct a forced-main sewer along Ohio Street, and approved allowing the construction. The sewer will support the truck stop and several new developments in the area.

Mayor John Hamm said a Pratt Family representative is expected to make a formal presentation on those developments to the council at the next meeting.

Doug Pratt had asked for the easement on behalf of his family, which owns the property.

The council also approved a written easement allowing B Auto Parts to park on city-owned right of way. A resolution on the agreement must be approved at a later meeting.

Advisory committee offers 2004 forums

By Scott Cousins
 Staff writer

A series of St. Louis 2004 forums targeting the concerns of black residents have begun in the Metro East area.

The forums are sponsored by the African American Advisory Committee of St. Louis 2004.

The forums will include a brief presentation of ideas for change developed by St. Louis 2004 volunteers and open-ended discussion about "key issues of importance to their community."

The first forum was held Oct. 21 at Southern Mission Baptist Church in East St. Louis.

Michelle Leith Cohen, vice president of communications for St. Louis 2004, said the first forum "went well, and we had a really good turnout."

S.O.S.: Armed Forces museum needs new landing pad

By Scott Kelly
 Staff writer

The Armed Forces Museum of St. Louis needs immediate extraction.

Anyone with a vacant building respond to this distress call.

After a decade esconed at the Charles Melvin Price Support Base in Granite City, the storehouse of military equipment treasures must move.

The museum needs a new home within 72 days as of today, or it may lose many of its irreplaceable pieces forever.

Retired Civil Air Patrol Capt. Carol Venable, museum director and a Ferguson, Mo., resident, said that would be a terrible shame.

"Each piece has a story to tell," he said. "They're classics that you see on TV are right here."

"We're the only museum in the world that has three experimental jeeps side-by-side," he said. The jeeps were built just before the United States entered World War II — the jeep was a U.S. workhorse during that war — and none are left but those three. "The jeeps are (See MUSEUM, Page 4A)

I determined that confusion and misunderstanding existed," he said.

Alice McKulza, one of the founders of Jesus' Place, said she agreed to let them serve a meal Thursday so long as the mission removed a faulty stove, but apparently did not tell them they needed to contact Talley and Brawley about it.

"At approximately 9 a.m. on Friday I returned to 1900 State St. with Glen Hollis, Jim Brawley and Police Sergeant Rosenburg," Talley stated. "Confusion still existed after a lengthy discussion, and I decided because of life safety concerns at that time to enforce section F-111.1 of the Fire Prevention Code in ordering evacuation of the entire structure."

"I have nothing personal against (Talley)," Gibson said. "Somebody wants to demolish this building."

McKulza agreed. "I totally respect him for not wanting a fire in Jesus' Place that could kill someone."

She said when the mission bought the building, the seller did not tell them it was scheduled for demolition. She said Talley told her Friday he would look into why the previous occupants were allowed to stay open with the building's existing problems.

When the mission was at 1316 19th St., from August 1995

to May of this year, nobody bothered with it, she said, but now suspects many downtown merchants don't want the mission at its new location.

"There's an element in town (that thinks) there are no hungry or homeless people" in the city, Gibson said.

Gibson said the shutdown would affect "numerous lives." He estimated Jesus' Place "touches the lives of (thousands) each week."

The mission offers drug rehabilitation, a computer skills class and hot meals. No one lives in the building, and no homeless spend the night, he said. McKulza said with cold weather coming on, needy people will need a hot meal.

"I have five freezers full of food I can't distribute," Gibson said.

"The city needs to know we need their support," McKulza said. She and other Jesus' Place leaders hope to meet soon with city officials to work out a solution agreeable to all concerned.

"I'm not saying there aren't a lot of problems; there are. We have to find a way to continue," she said.

Atwood guest at open house

By Scott Cousins

The dream will soon be a reality.

The open house and dedication of the Protestant Welfare Association Community Care Center's new kitchen and meeting rooms will be today.

The open house begins at 2 p.m., with ceremonies starting at 2:30 p.m. at the center, 1818 Cleveland Blvd., Granite City.

Tom Atwood, KSDK Channel 5's Illinois bureau chief, will be the master of ceremonies.

Protestant Welfare Board President Denise Wright said it was a "happy occasion."

"It's a dream of mine I've had ever since we came in here five years ago, and now it's a reality," she said.

The center will run a soup and sandwich kitchen — probably starting about a week before Thanksgiving — and educational classes out of the renovated area.

Wright said changes in the welfare system is making these kind of programs more and more important.

"It's going to be a radical change," she said, talking about welfare reform. "I believe the community needs to be ready to help these people."

Duke Wade, who planned the renovation and coordinated much of the work, said volunteers did most of the work, and most of the cost was paid with a combination of state, federal, local and private grants.

He said the project's value is between $200,000-$250,000.

Wade said the project was a "good thing" that might help

Tom Atwood will break the cycle of welfare. Otherwise it keeps going from generation to generation," he said.

POLICE BEAT

Venice

ARMED ROBBERY: Stereo equipment valued at several hundred dollars was reported stolen in an armed robbery in Venice late Thursday evening.

According to police reports, at 11:40 p.m., police responded to a report of three armed men robbing a man while he was installing stereo equipment in his car in the 600 block of Filmore.

The victim said he was in the car installing the equipment when a red and white mini-van pulled up and a man jumped out, put a gun to his head and demanded money.

When he told the assailant he had no money, the victim was forced to lay on the ground while the three took the stereo equipment.

The victim said the assailants were armed with a revolver, a semi-automatic pistol, and a MAC-10.

GRANITE CITY

DRUG CHARGES: A Granite City man stopped because of a faulty registration light is facing more than a half-dozen charges, including possible drug charges.

Stacy A. Filter, 33, of the 2100 block of Nevada in Granite City, was charged with driving with a suspended license, possession of drug paraphernalia, having no rear registration light, and operating a motor vehicle without insurance. He also had an outstanding warrant for traffic offenses from St. Clair County.

He could also face charges of illegal possession of cannabis and illegal possession of a controlled substance, pending the results of lab tests.

According to reports, an officer observed Filter's truck in the 1400 block of Second Street and made a traffic stop.

During a security pat-down, officers discovered what they believed to be marijuana in Filter's right-front pocket, and found a suspected crack pipe with a small white chip inside on the front seat of the vehicle.

Forums

She said three agencies from that and other meetings were that people were interested in "neighborhood-based" decision making; schools and education is a "priority throughout the region;" and that racial division "really slows our communities down and we as a region have to find ways to come together."

Cohen also said people see Downtown "as the heart of the region, and we've got to revive it."

Residents also said infrastructure needs to be planned regionally, and that everyone should have access to health care.

ELECTION '97

Four incumbents running for District 9 board

Voters in Granite City Community School District #9 will vote to re-elect four incumbents to the school board Nov. 4.

The terms are for four years. The candidates are Edlin E. Rea, Walt Whitaker, Pete Novacich and Jim Noeth. The candidates in the order they are on the ballot, and the responses they gave to a Journal questionnaire, are:

REA, 63, of the 3200 block of Erin Drive in Granite City, is a retired engineer from Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and has lived in the area for 41 years with his wife, Lois. He has five children, Cynthia, 40; Mark, 38; Jeffrey, 36; Rebecca, 35; and Jennifer, 26. He is seeking another four-year term to the board.

Qualifications: Rea said he is a registered professional engineer (Missouri), has 40 years of professional business experience and has been a member of the Board of Education for four years, serving as president and treasurer. He received the "Award for Meritorious Service" from the Illinois State Board of Education for the 1997-98 school year.

Rea has a bachelor's of science in electrical engineering from the University of Illinois.

Organizations: Rea is a member and trustee of Bethel Chapel Pentecostal Church in Granite City, on the Board of Directors for the area YMCA, and is one the Family Council — University Manor Nursing Home.

Important issues: "Promoting continuation of progress made by the present board in the areas of moral and scholastic development of our students, sound faculty and administrative staffs, fiscal policies and maintenance of the physical properties of the area."

WHITAKER, 64, of the 3200 block of Kilmer, is a retired school administrator in Granite City, a life-long resident of the area with his wife, Judy, and has two children, Kristy, 33, and Mark, 30. He is seeking another four-year term on the Board of Education.

Qualifications: Whitaker's qualifications include previous experience on the board, previous jobs as a teacher, coach and administrator and knowledge of the needs of the district and the area. He has a bachelor's degree and a master's degree in education.

Organizations: He is a member of Holy Family Catholic Church, the Elks Lodge and Eagles Lodge.

Important issues: "To give the children of District 9 a quality education, and serve the citizens with fiscal responsibility."

Pete Novacich

NOVACICH did not respond to the Journal's request for information.

NOETH, 66, of the 2500 block of Ivy Lane, is a retired educator from District 9, and has lived in the area for 50 years, along with his wife, Mildred. He has four children, Elaine, 41; Jim, 40; Jerry, 36; and Janice, 34. He is seeking another four-year term to the board.

Qualifications: In addition to his education experience as a teacher and counselor, Noeth has been a farmer, real-estate agent, a trucker and has worked at Granite City Steel. He has a bachelor's of science in biology and chemistry, a master's degree in education administration and post graduate work in counseling.

Organizations: Noeth is a

Walt Whitaker

member of St. Elizabeth Church, the Rotary, Elks, Knights of Columbus, American Legion and the Chamber of Commerce.

Important issues: To continue projects the current board has begun.

Four run unopposed in Madison races

Voters in the Madison School District will have an easy choice, where four candidates are unopposed for four seats in the Nov. 4 election.

Incumbents Harry Peterson and James E. Newsome, along with newcomers Carol Hamm and John Ervin, are seeking four-year terms. Incumbents John Greco and Farris Smith are not seeking re-election.

The candidates in the order they are on the ballot, and the responses they gave to a Journal questionnaire, are:

NEWSOME did not respond to the Journal's request for information.

HAMM did not respond to the Journal's request for information.

PETERSON, 49, of the 700 block of Washington Avenue, is a telecommunicator and a 20-year resident of the area. He lives in Madison with his wife, Helen. They have two children, Brian, 22, and Laura, 18.

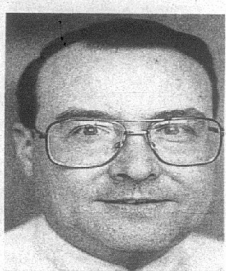

Qualifications: Peterson said he is a long-time resident and has prior teaching experience. He has worked as sixth-grade teacher in Duplo. He is a graduate of Assumption High School and has a bachelor's of science from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Organizations: He is a member of St. Mary's Church in Madison, the Madison City Organization and Madison Neighborhood Watch.

Challenges emerge in Venice District

Three incumbents and four challengers are seeking four-year seats on the Venice School District, and two incumbents are vying for one two-year seat in District #12.

Incumbents Alvester Salmond, Clarence Rhodes Jr. and Ruby Johnson are being challenged by Karen Renee Matkins, Sandra K. Harris, Carolyn "Pam" Wilson and James Harrell.

Incumbents John Henry Williams and William Tyler Jr. are seeking one two-year spot. These profiles are based on a questionnaire filled out and returned by candidates.

Four-year term
SALMOND, 56, of Madison, is a retired licensed practical nurse, and has lived in the area since she was six months old.

She is married to Eddie L. Salmond Sr., and has three children.

Salmond is a graduate of Madison High School and the F.W. Olin Vocational School for Practical Nursing.

Organizations: She is a member of the Eagle Park Improvement Association, Eagle Park Action Committee and past member of the Eagle Park Fire Protection Board and the Region 1 Special Education Board.

Qualifications: As a board member, Salmond said she has been dedicated, honest and fair. A school board member since the 1980s, she has served as secretary, vice president and is currently president.

"I have participated on many of the appointed committees, including payroll and negotiations," she said. "I have attended numerous workshops and conferences aimed at keeping the district financially stable and creating curriculum that would enable our students to be better prepared."

Important issues: She said she is seeking another term because "I believe that every child can learn. I feel that the future of the world lies within the youth of this country, and they are in need of a sound foundation."

She said the community is no stronger than the people living in it, and the school board is no better than the board members who direct it.

Candidate's Comments: Education is the key to the prosperity of our community," she said. "We will not achieve any of these things unless our school board, administrators, faculty, support personnel, parents and students join together as a team."

"I have continued to stress these items of importance during my tenure and I feel that I can and have made a difference," she said.

Ruth group meets

On Oct. 16, the Ruth Group of Central Christian Church met at 7 p.m.

The study led by Lynda Leggett was about Deborah, one of the Old Testament Judges. The title of the study was "They haven't Heard the Story." Doris Edwards read the scripture.

Announcements were made about the upcoming projects and activities of the Christian Women's Fellowship.

Those present were: Pearl Kennedy, Lynda Leggett, Doris Edwards, Barbara Andrews, Betty Ebrecht, and Helen Stumpe.

Museum

so rare, anybody that knows jeep history knows how rare they are."

So why the panic over rare old equipment?

"If it weren't for the soldiers, (we) wouldn't be here today. Vehicles here also served their country," Venable said. A great way to teach each generation about the sacrifices, hardships and valor of previous generations is to set them in what soldiers actually used.

Price commanders told the museum staff that the base was a secure facility and the museum could no longer be there, Venable said.

"What it boils down to is a need for space," said Public Affairs Specialist Dan O'Boyle, from the Aviation and Missile Command in Huntsville, Ala.

Some public affairs for the Price base moved south with the former Aviation and Missile Command earlier this year.

"(The base) is a Department of Defense agency, and someone in the D of D has said, 'We need the space,'" O'Boyle said. "In some respect it's the result of downsizing."

"The defense of the nation comes first," he said.

"I made it a point not to 'can' the commander," Venable said, but "he could have saved it."

The most ideal situation would be to find a suitable building in Granite City, Venable says. The museum plays hosts to several youth programs that Venable says would be devastated if the museum moves from the city.

However, museum officials would welcome temporary housings outside of Granite if nothing here were immediately forthcoming. Before it moved to the Price Base, the museum was housed at Lambert-St. Louis International Airport.

"We want to get bigger, not smaller," Venable said.

A new home nearby is their first choice, mainly because of the logistics involved. The 80-odd vehicles need to be moved, but you can't just drive an M-60 tank down the highway.

Unfortunately for the museum, the base commanders probably won't give them the means to move all the pieces, Venable said.

"They'll probably have to it themselves," O'Boyle said. "There's enough community and volunteer spirit in Missouri and Illinois to get the job done."

Many of the vehicles are in working order. Their weapons are deactivated, though.

Museum pieces are seen in various veteran and patriotic events, such as the Veteran's Day parade in downtown St. Louis and World War II re-enactments at Jefferson Barracks.

"We're going on with the show," Venable said, despite the move.

Museum inventory

Among the priceless military equipment at the Armed Forces Museum of St. Louis are:

- The 14th M-60 main battle tank that came off the assembly line. Its hull and turret were cast at Granite City Steel.
- Three prototype jeeps built before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. The jeep was a staple of U.S. forces in World War II, and the museum is the only one in the country with all three prototypes.

- An M5 Stuart tank (see color photo), a lightly-armed tank often used for scouting in World War II.

- A UH-1 "Huey" used in the Vietnam War, one of the few remaining examples, and the first Cobra helicopter gunship bought and used by the U.S. Army. Both are rare examples, because all others were either shot down or abandoned when America pulled out of Vietnam.

- A Czechoslovakian-made version of a German Army half-track, forerunner to today's armored personnel carriers and common in armies on both sides during World War II.

- A German Army tank killer, a small, lightly armored tank used to ambush real tanks.

- A Canadian-made self-propelled gun.

Here's an electric bill that everyone can agree on.

More and more, people all across the state are agreeing—The Electric Service Customer Choice and Rate Relief Bill of 1997 (Senate Bill 55) is a good thing for everybody. In addition to more safeguards and freedom of choice, consumers get an automatic rate reduction while continuing to enjoy safe and reliable electric service.

The growing support isn't all that surprising. After all, representatives from Illinois businesses, citizens groups and organized labor put more than two years into crafting an agreement. That's why this measure passed the Illinois House by such an overwhelming majority. With your state Senators' support, it will do the same in the Senate.

administrator of a surety program for Peabody Holding Co., St. Louis. She is a life-long resident of the area.

She is married to Clinton J. Harris Jr. and has two children, 2 and 17 years old.

Harris is a graduate of Venice High School, and is enrolled in St. Louis Community College's Fidelity and Surety Bond continuing education program.

Qualifications: "I have good planning, organizational, verbal, writing, and some financial skills to contribute to the efficient operation of the school board," she said.

Organizations: She is a member of Canaan Galilee Missionary Baptist Church.

Important issues: Harris wants to ensure that tax dollars are being used to provide a quality education.

RHODES JR., 51, of the 100 block of Harrison, Madison, is a senior cost accountant for Mallinckrodt, Inc. in St. Louis.

An area resident for 21 years, he is originally from Somerville, Tenn.

He is married to Denise Rhodes and has two children. He has an associates degree in data processing from Belleville Area College, and an associates degrees in business administration and a bachelor's degree in business administration from Columbia College.

Qualifications: He was appointed to the board in 1996 to fill an unexpired term.

Alvester Salmond

William Tyler, Jr.

John Henry Williams

Organizations: Rhodes is a member of Canaan Galilee Missionary Baptist Church, and is secretary of the Joe Willie Roberts Youth Athletic Club. He is also a member of the Madison County 911 Telephone Board.

Candidate's Comments: "I would like to continue to be a part of the positive change that is taking place in the school district," he said.

HARRELL, 48, of the 600 block of Washington Street, Venice, is chief finance officer with REJIS Commission in St. Louis.

A life-long resident and graduate of McKendree College in Lebanon, he is married to Barbara Harrell and has two children.

Two-year term.

WILLIAMS, 49, of the 600 block of Washington Street, Venice, is an environmental inspector for Madison County, and is a lifetime resident of the Venice area.

He is married to Linda Fay Williams, and has six children.

Candidate's Comments: He is seeking office "to restore credibility, accountability and responsibility to the Venice Public School system."

Organizations: Williams is pastor of New Shining Light Missionary Baptist Church in Venice, and is a member of the Venice Lions Club, a board member of the Madison County Urban League, and New Hope Masonic Lodge.

Qualifications: In addition to his present position on the school board, Williams is a former member of the Venice Park Board of Commissioners, and a former Ward Two alderman. He said raising his own and foster children proves his interest in children.

Important issues: Williams included a long list of concerns, including: Improved access to computers for the children; making sure that the school environment is safe; a tutoring program for students; making sure each student knows how to read before leaving eighth grade.

Candidate's Comments: Williams said he wants to "make sure that our teachers and staff have every resource available so our children will have access to all materials needed for them to learn." He also continues support for programs that will allow every student to have an opportunity to excel.

TYLER JR., 42, of the 700 block of Broadway, Venice, is a veteran's claims examiner with the Veteran's Administration in St. Louis. He has an associates degree in accounting, and had attended Millikin University and SIUE.

He is married to Eleanor J. Tyler, and has four children ages 13, 15, 20 and 22.

Organizations: Tyler is a member of Liberty Christian Center, a past master at Jericho Lodge 120, president of the Venice Volunteer Fire Department, and president of the American Federation of Government Employees, Local 2192, and a member of the Venice/Madison American Legion. He also worked with the Joe Willie Roberts Youth Foundation.

Qualifications: In addition to his service on the school board, Tyler said his seven years union president and 10 years with the fire department make him qualified.

Important issues: Tyler said he is seeking reelection "to bring new ideas to the community for the purpose of educating our children." He also seeks to hold the school board members and employees accountable for the district's expenditures.

Candidate's Comments: "The community is only as strong as the school district that serves it," he said.

Board

HOROSCOPE

Use the intensity of the Virgo moon to fuel the entire week. Its hardworking vibes affect us for lasting changes, and everyday, we learn more about enjoying ourselves as we grow. Expanding our lives isn't a chore. Mars conjuncts Venus, lighting our lives with tangible ways to introduce more romance, luck and money into our daily routines.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Oct. 26). Love waits for you each step of the way this year. Affirm its presence! In November, write, call and reach out toward new friends and new goals. Powerful people back your ambitions in January. Your domestic skills lead to extra profit in December and February. A partnership opens a new dimension now and in March. Continue to improve yourself bit by bit, day by day.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Reassess all relationships since you've become a different per-

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Sparks of romance are flickering whether or not you choose to notice. Large purchases are lucky, especially in real estate. Maybe it's time to start that business project with your family members.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Your love is completely faithful — are you? Find many sources of luck in large groups. You are better off conducting business by phone than traveling. Don't take your hostility out on those you care about.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Career choices are difficult to make, but ponder on them for right now. You have far more talent and drive than you credit yourself with. Children test your patience and stamina. Your social contacts bring you profit.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Your self-confidence soars to new levels, affirming the future. Friends are jealous of your luck, so excuse the underhanded comments. You may have short-changed yourself in the past, but it doesn't need to continue!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Building a career starts with a plan. Do you have one? Side-step emotional commitments until you are sure. Find supportive friends. An artistic project brings the release you need for mental clarity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22). Each person's task is laid out, so don't feel compelled to do all the work. An attractive friend pops into the picture tonight — hold on to your heart! Get into a new routine, or commit to a lifestyle change starting today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21). Be your own best boss, and go about tackling problems in modest, practical steps. You are more enterprising than you think, but you lack motivation. A like-minded friend inspires you to action.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You and your sweetheart have the same goals in mind, so try to get along! Take tiny steps instead of plunging in head first. Love tonight is sweetly affectionate. Wherever you go tonight, watch your valuables.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). It's so easy to fall in love when you take things in the moment instead of trying to fit them into the future picture.

When in doubt, be truthful. Place your family's needs above your friends' expectations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). A trip is vital no matter what the cost. Business affairs require thorough action, which is easy now that work seems more like play. Whirlwind love is your forte, and everyone wants to get to know you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Reserve the right to change your mind as many times as you need to. It's easy to accomplish what you enjoy just as long as you're working hard. A new beginning is possible with an old love.

A personal medium

Radio disc jockeys interact with listeners

By Walter Pritchard
Correspondent

Radio always has been and always will be a personal communication medium.

It's been that way from the golden age of radio following World War II, which featured stars such as Burns and Allen, as well as Amos and Andy, to Top 40-formatted AM stations and now the smooth all-music FM stations.

Radio goes where people are — at home, work, in the car, on the street or at the beach. To many listeners, it is a good friend.

For that reason, a radio announcer or disc jockey needs the ability to interact with people.

"You must be studious, a great communicator with strong educational background. That's very important," Chaz Saunders said.

For the past nine years she has been the midday voice on KJMM-FM (107.7, also known as MAJIC 108).

Saunders, born and reared in New York City, was a broadcast journalism major at the University of South Carolina, where she worked first at the campus newspaper and then at its radio station.

Saunders has worked at National Public Radio. During her 19-year radio career she has been a program director, operations manager and public affairs director.

In addition to her on-air duties at MAJIC-

108, she also is program director of its sister station, KATZ-AM (1600, also known as Gospel 1600).

Saunders said she always has loved radio, continuously "flipping the dial" out of fascination with the radio medium during her youth.

Starting at a campus radio station is a good place for aspiring announcers to begin, Saunders said.

"It is a good place to get experience and a practical application," she said.

To excel in radio as an announcer, one has to be first and foremost, a people person, Saunders said. That includes having a pleasant-sounding voice and "smiling on the radio" to connect to listeners, she said.

A broadcaster always is a communicator, she said.

Vets care for pets— and the pets' owners

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Spending your days taking care of furry creatures has a lot in common with caring for their human counterparts.

Becoming a veterinarian — like becoming a medical doctor — takes a strong constitution, rigid training in a lengthy educational process and successful completion of state-licensing requirements.

In fact, veterinarians may have it a little tougher. Doctors have only one species of patients; veterinarians can have hundreds.

"You don't see as many all-around general practitioners anymore," said Dr. David Hall. "There is just too much information to process. Most people will specialize in something."

For Hall, who operates the Horseshoe Lake Animal Hospital in Collinsville, says his specialty is "Great Danes and smaller." Hall, licensed to practice in Illinois, Missouri and Arizona, also serves as animal control officer for Madison County.

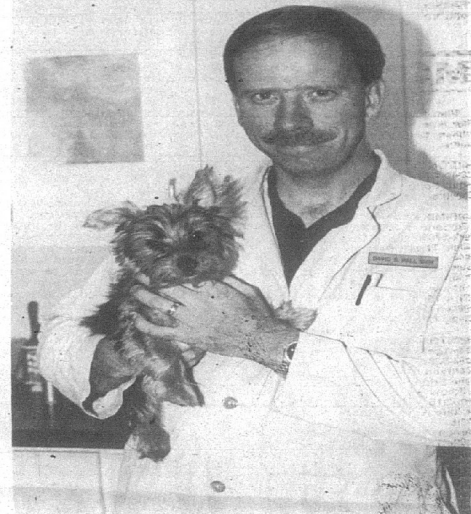

Years ago, animal doctors were trained to treat everything from horses to house cats. Hall's patients, which are primarily cats and dogs, have included foxes, coyotes and turtles. Once, he even amputated a swan's injured wing.

Technological advances, however, have given would-be veterinarians the chance to choose a field within their field. Like medical doctors, veterinarians have a variety of specializations to pick from, including surgery, ophthalmology, oncology, or orthopedics.

While Hall completed his veterinary training at the University of Missouri's College of Veterinary Medicine in just two years, it normally takes four.

"I wouldn't recommend it but I'm proud that it can be done," Hall said.

Before veterinary school, a four-year degree is required — and not just in anything.

"You would want to have a strong emphasis on science — a lot of chemistry, biology and physics, some humanities, too, before you even consider going on," Hall said.

Education doesn't stop with a license. Annual requirements vary from state to state. In Illinois, for example, a minimum of 10 hours of training is required each year.

Hall said the "stereotypical" veterinarian is one who cares very deeply for the creatures he or she treats.

"It certainly makes it a lot easier for a veterinarian to care about what they're doing and about their patients," Hall said.

Accounting career is changing with the times

By D.L. Brauch
Correspondent

Accountants.

The popular image is of bean counters, thick-spectacled persons clutching pencil stubs, scribbling to the ka-chung of an antiquated adding machine.

"Accountants are historically viewed as kind of nerdy people," quipped Jim Jennings, chairman of St. Louis University's accounting department. "The introverted number-cruncher is really history."

Today, many accountants are no longer seen and not heard. With computers taking over more of the routine drudge work, the need for well-developed people skills sometimes outstrips even mathematical prowess.

"With powerful and sophisticated software, accountants still need to understand accounting principles," Jennings said. "They don't need to be a computer programmer either — that has all been done. Accounting has been very much impacted by technology."

Even complicated federal and state tax returns have been incorporated into a software package.

Randy Howe, accounting supervisor at Anheuser-Busch Cos. Inc., who serves some private customers as well, has a unique vantage point.

"You have two kinds of accountants out there — CPAs (certified public accountants) in private practice and those who work for large companies," Howe said.

Large companies offer few positions for those who prefer the solitude of the back office, he said.

"We need extroverted number-crunchers," Howe said.

Jennings sees several components to success in the field of accounting.

Math abilities in the sense of being able to do abstract reasoning is crucial, Jennings said.

"To think and adapt special fact situations into meeting some particular reporting format."

So far, no surprises. Accountants, numbers, reports — what's new?

"Accountants need good oral and written communication skills," Jennings said. "They have to talk to people and relate to people in order to explain what the numbers mean to them. Accounting demands a balance of quantitative skills and communications skills."

As in many professions, accounting involves jargon that is understood best by others in the same business. However, the accountant must find appropriate ways to get the facts across to management.

"It is up to us to learn their language, not for them to learn ours," Howe said.

Add to the growing list of qualities for a good accountant a well-tuned ear to the rumblings in Congress.

"A lot of minor changes can impact people," Howe said.

And those vying for accounting jobs will find a few surprises.

"The job market is good for good people," Jennings said. "Large CPA firms don't want anybody without a 3.25 GPA (with honors) from a good school. They won't even look at anybody from a not-good school."

On-the-job experience manager's best trainingBy Steve Bryan
Correspondent

Some jobs, such as those in the medical or legal professions, require years of intense study and training.

People entering those fields log numerous hours in classrooms and libraries before beginning their careers.

On the other hand, Misbah Jamal, restaurant manager of the Bevo Mill, 4749 Gravois Ave. in south St. Louis, thinks the majority of training for his career happens on the job.

"I have a master's degree in international business and a bachelor's degree in MIS (management information systems)," Jamal said. "But you can't show a person how to handle stress in school. That comes from experience."

"I didn't really learn how to do something in this job unless I went in and did it. That experience helped me more than anything else."

Restaurant managers are in charge of the entire food service operation. Depending on the restaurant, that could mean checking that the wine cellar is fully stocked before dinner or ensuring that enough drivers are available to deliver pizzas.

Restaurant managers must know how to properly delegate authority. Food service requires that many things, including chopping items for the salad bar or changing the toilet paper in the bathrooms, are done every day.

Good managers, therefore, don't try to do everything themselves, but rather give their employees a chance to show what they can do. There are times, however, when managers must roll up their sleeves and lend a helping hand.

On a typical evening, the kitchen might run out of one of the specials or a cook and a server may be having a disagreement. Restaurant managers must smooth over differences and find alternatives quickly and efficiently.

Of course, a good working knowledge of food and wine is essential to the typical restaurant manager. They should know about changes in the food service industry, such as the recent popularity of portabella mushrooms to the rising cost of lettuce.

Most important of all, a restaurant manager needs good communication skills.

"It's a very different business with different kinds of people," Jamal said. "Everyone reacts differently. The cook is cooking in 90-degree heat while the servers are serving food in relatively normal temperatures."

Formal training for this career is available locally at schools such as Sanford-Brown College and Patricia Stevens College. Both colleges offer courses in travel, tourism and hospitality.

Jamal said, however, that in many situations experience is still the best teacher.

"You can't learn how to deal with some situations in school," Jamal said. "What happens when a customer comes to your restaurant in a

Recent AA hitting champ will be skipper for Fairview

Mention that a baseball player won the Class AA Texas League batting championship with an average of .331 in 1994 and you might be thinking of someone involved in the World Series.

In this case, the player is Bodney Lofton of East St. Louis, who will become the new manager of Fairview Heights of the Mon-Clair Baseball League, which will conduct its annual awards banquet and Hall of Fame induction Saturday, Nov. 1, at the Millstadt VFW.

While Lofton surely will be introduced, Dennis Foor, the skipper of a team that compiled an 11-15 league record last season, is hopeful of returning after having to move from the area due to a job commitment.

A shortstop and pitcher for Fairview last summer, the 30-year-old Lofton batted .289 for the Falcons. As recently as 1995, he was playing for the New Orleans Zephyrs of the Milwaukee Brewers organization.

A 1985 graduate of East St. Louis Senior High School, Lofton was a collegiate all-star at Grambling State before signing with Baltimore in 1988. During his eight seasons of professional baseball, he was with the Orioles, Cincinnati Reds and Milwaukee with his highest classification being the Class AAA International League with Baltimore's Rochester (N.Y.) Red Wings in 1990.

"We are disappointed in losing Dennis Foor from our league but know he has turned the reins over to someone very competent in Bodney Lofton," Mon-Clair League President Mel Patton said at a recent meeting.

Patton also credited Foor for starting the Fairview team and for hosting recent league all-star games at the stadium in Longacre Park.

Said Foor: "Please pass along my sincere appreciation to the managers. The experience has been a memorable one which I will recall with pleasure."

Extra innings

Tickets for the M-C banquet, which will include the induction of former major league coach Rich Hacker and Father Ed Hustedde of Valmeyer into the Hall of Fame, can be obtained at $10 per person by contacting Sy "Tuffy" Muehl of Millstadt at 476-1861.

Other award winners include batting champions Jim Wahlig of Waterloo, Monroe Division, 599; and Mike Robertson, East Alton, St. Clair Division, 589. In 26 games while Waterloo was running off with its 16th consecutive divisional crown, Wahlig was 44 of 71 with 28 runs batted in and 33 runs scored. Robertson was 33 of 56 with 34 RBIs and 28 runs scored for the St. Clair champs, who posted a 21-5 league mark.

Chris George of Waterloo led all pitchers with a 7-0 record and 1.54 earned run average. In 41 innings, the righthander allowed 27 hits, struck out 45 and walked 14. Darin Hendrickson of Granite City gained his fourth consecutive St. Clair Division ERA title with a 1.81 figure while posting a 6-3 record. In 61 innings, Hendrickson, who coaches baseball at Fontbonne College in St. Louis, allowed 48 hits while striking out 58 and allowing 11 base on balls.

Allaria gets kick out of return chores

By Greg Shashack
Staff writer

For those skeptics questioning the wisdom of having a quarterback return kicks, Edwardsville's Mark Allaria provided a compelling rebuttal Friday night.

PREP FOOTBALL
EDWARDSVILLE 27,
GRANITE CITY 7

"You play to win," Edwardsville coach Tim Dougherty said. "Mark's real good back there and it's no different than running him on the option."

After watching Granite City open the third quarter with a long touchdown drive, Allaria promptly answered with a 93-yard kick return that sealed Edwardsville's 27-7 Southwestern Conference victory at the Sports Complex.

"The holes have been there all year," Allaria said. "I just haven't thrown a good enough move on the kicker, I guess. But our guys do a real good job getting that blocked and tonight we popped one."

"That took away any momentum they might have had."

The victory improved the Tigers' record to 8-1 overall and 5-1 in the SWC. Granite closes its season at 2-7

Edwardsville QB makes his mark as Tigers roll past Granite City and 1-5 in the league.

"It's a great tribute to these kids, being 8-1," said Dougherty, whose Tigers were coming off back-to-back 9-0 regular seasons. "I can't say enough about them, they exceeded my expectations and I'm real proud of them."

Edwardsville, playing its first home game since Aug. 29 because of two forfeit victories over East St. Louis and Lincoln, took a 21-0 halftime lead and put the game away on Allaria's return.

Fullback Joe Bevis rushed for 129 yards on 25 carries to surpass the 1,000-yard mark for the season. The 6-foot, 186-pounder has 1,092 yards (9.0 per carry) to become the first sophomore in Edwardsville history to eclipse 1,000 yards.

Edwardsville, with Bevis carrying the lead on its first 11 plays, took the lead on play No. 12 when Allaria took the option 24 yards for a score. Allaria, who has run for 10 touchdowns and passed for nine, scored again on a 42-yard touchdown run to give the Tigers a 14-0 lead with 3:10 left in the first half.

A bad snap and fumble by the Warriors punter gave the Tigers possession at Granite's 17 with 1:11 seconds left in the second quarter. Bevis' 9-yard TD run and Brad Grotefend's third extra point sent the Tigers to halftime with a 21-0 lead.

The Warriors rallied with an 11-play, 74-yard scoring drive capped by Brooks Narvaez's 4-yard touchdown run to cut the lead to 21-7.

"They're a well-coached, well-disciplined team," Granite City coach Nick Petrillo said of the Tigers. "We score a touchdown and think, maybe, we're going to get back into this."

But Allaria's TD return put Granite on the ropes and the Tigers defense provided the knockout punch, with tackle Mario Ivy dominating play at the line of scrimmage.

"Other than that third-quarter drive, I thought the defense played exceptionally well," Dougherty said. "Mario seemed to be all over the field and I'm sure a lot of other guys played well, too."

A 53-yard pass from Rocky Smith to John Fronabarger on a fake punt set Granite up at the Tigers 6, but Allaria's interception in the end zone on fourth-and-goal from the 5 killed the threat.

"We play as a unit and not individuals," said Ivy, a 6-4, 223-pound senior. "We had high expectations and we were excited about playing in front of the home crowd. We've been riding a bus every Friday, so we were kind of glad to be back home."

Granite sophomore quarterback Zach May completed 8 of 12 passes for 55 yards and two interceptions. Juaunell Goodwin rushed for 77 yards on 20 carries to lead the Warriors, who produced 240 yards total offense.

Freshman Warriors cap perfect season

Warriors top Edwardsville with near-perfect effort

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL
GRANITE CITY 45,
EDWARDSVILLE 7

About the only thing the Granite City Warriors freshman football team didn't do right in Thursday afternoon's game was Edwardsville was the ceremonial dumping of the Gatorade cooler on coach Carl Luehmann.

Everything else was right on the money.

The result was a convincing 45-7 rout of the Tigers and a near-perfect end to a perfect year. The Warriors were 9-0 for the season, thumping opponents by an average of more than 32 points per game.

On Thursday, the offensive line of Brad Smith, Joshua Wright, Justin York, Jason Evenden, David Crouch, Bobby Grammer and Andy Mottagart were opening holes large enough for a school bus to pass.

The Warriors had no trouble finding the openings, rushing the ball 55 times for 381 yards, shredding the Edwardsville defense in every possession. Granite scored on four of five possessions in the first half, three of four in the second half.

Leading the offensive charge was Marty Graham, who parlayed 22 rushing attempts into 254 yards and four touchdowns, including scoring romps of 31 and 52 yards.

Joshua Wright and Shawn O'dell also ran well from the fullback position. O'dell picked up 75 yards on 14 carries.

The Warriors scored twice in the first quarter. After the Tigers received the opening kick and went three-and-out, Granite put together an impressive 69-yard drive in eight plays, putting the game's final points on the board when Graham scampered in from nine yards out.

Then, less than six minutes later, after Edwardsville turned the ball over on a failed fourth down try, Graham belted 52 yards on the first play from

The Intimidator

Brill could strike fear in opponents

By Brian Bretsch
Staff writer

Golf is not exactly one of those sports where one individual can strike fear in all of the competition.

On the high school level, Collinsville High senior Tyson Brill is about as close to an intimidator as one can get.

Brill, the High School Golfer of the Year for the Journal Newspapers of Southern Illinois, led the entire Metro East area this fall with a 36.4 average per nine holes.

"He was probably a little intimidating to some of the other kids he played because of how good he was," CHS golf coach Mel Heien said. "His average was 36.4 — a half of stroke over par — which is outstanding. Too maintain that over a nine-week season is just outstanding."

"He was the medalist for us 13 out of the 16 times that we played. He was obviously our best player. He was probably the medalist in matches against everybody more than half the time. He was just a good player. There are no ifs, ands or buts about it."

Brill thrived on being one of the top two golfers in the area the last two seasons along with his good friend Brent Jackson of Belleville East.

"There was no pressure at all," Brill said. "I liked being the man to beat. Brent is a good competitor. Brent and I always went head-to-head, he is such a good player. He birdied the last hole at Clinton Hill to tie me when we went to play the other day. He never quits."

Jackson always seemed to bring out the best in Brill on the golf course and vice versa. When Jackson missed qualifying for the sectional tournament by one stroke, Brill was visibly choked up when his friend was going.

Brill, who qualified for the Illinois High School Association Class AA State Golf Invitational the last three seasons, kept a focused mindset throughout the year.

"When I did go out on the course and play, I wanted to see how low I could shoot," Brill said. "I pretty much just wanted to play par. If there was another person shooting even with me like Brent or someone else, I would turn it into match play and usually I would come out on top. I wish everything was match play. I love match play."

Lawary's poise powers Maroons in conference tourney

By Scott Marlon
Staff writer

When the Belleville West volleyball team needed a spark, Danielle Lawary provided the power.

A junior middle hitter, Lawary led the Maroons to a 12-15, 15-8, 15-7 victory Thursday against Belleville East in the championship match of the Southwestern Conference tournament.

The come-from-behind victory gave West a share of the SWC title. The Maroons and Lancers (who beat West 16-14, 16-14 on Oct. 2) are both 9-1 in league play.

"In the first game, Danielle had 11 kills out of 17 swings," West coach Charles Rodman said of Lawary, a second-year varsity starter. "For the entire game, nothing was falling for us and our confidence level was down. We had to show what we could do and pick it up as a team."

"I've matured as a player. That comes with experience and knowing the game better. Going to nationals (last summer with the Momentum 10s) helped and so did playing those tournaments in Chicago. It helps to see the competition that's coming (during the high school season)."

West and East could meet again Saturday in the regional finals at East. Lawary is confident that this week will be the start of another big postseason run for the Maroons.

club team. She plans to play AAU basketball next summer, but that doesn't necessarily mean hoops will be her sport of choice in college.

"I love them all," she said, grinning. "There's no telling what I'm going to do in college."

"Playing one sport carries over to another as far as physical ability. If you don't do anything in the offseason, how can you improve?"

Lawary's poise helped West recover from a horrible start in Thursday's match.

"I wasn't nervous, but I could see the other girls were," she said. "I felt I had to step up. I was pumped up because the team needed me. I couldn't get down and not play the game I could."

MVC champs

Knights had many highlights but conference title was tops

By Brian Bretsch

Junior Chad Fisk's appearance at the Illinois High School Association Class AA State Golf Tournament was a perfect top to the Triad Knights' success this fall.

All the golfers associated with 1997 Knights squad will have plenty of memories to look back on.

"Not to lessen it or doubting (Fisk's) ability, it was really a surprise, a pleasant surprise that he made it to state," Triad golf coach Stu Weider said. "I thought he was capable of getting out the regional. I thought we could have had a couple of guys get out of the regional. Then for him to do it again at the sectional to get to advance was tough."

In addition to Fisk's playing at the state tournament, the entire squad was still buzzing after capturing their first Mississippi Valley Conference title.

The MVC title was the Knights' biggest highlight of the season. However, the team did win its division at the Edwardsville Invitational and also fired a solid team score at the regional tournament.

"Without a doubt, that was the biggest thing," Weider said of the MVC crown. "That is something we have been shooting for the last couple of years. I really thought we had a chance last year but we didn't quite do it. To come through and do it was a high light."

Mascouth and players like Ryan Florek had been the road block standing in the Knights way in their quest for the MVC title seemingly every year.

This season, the Knights had plenty of depth to go around that road block as well as Jerseyville.

"Last year it was kind of funny because we basically had the same team as last year and we finished ahead of them (Mascouth) but Jerseyville won it, which it was on their own course," Weider said. "Last year we felt like we could have done it but it definitely helped Jerseyville. Generally, Mascouth has been the team to beat."

came up huge for the Knights. He was the overall winner at the tournament. He was one of three Knights' players to shoot below 80.

The Knights did have a strong chance of defending their MVC title next year. The team loses Brendel and Kirk Cange to graduation.

"It gives us a very good opportunity to do it," Weider said. "Civic Memorial has everybody based as well. Jerseyville loses just one person. Highland's best player was a freshman. It's hard to say, but we definitely have the opportunity."

The Lady Knights golf team struggled through their dual match season. Of the five girls out for the squad, three of the girls were playing golf for the first time.

Brill would like to major in professional golf management and currently only four universities — New Mexico State, Mississippi State, Ferris State, Penn State — offer the course. Brill's first choice would be to get a scholarship to one of those colleges.

"Once you graduate out of this program, you are certified right off the bat and play as a certified PGA professional," Brill said. "The final degree is in business administration."

He hopes to create some memorable moments in the college ranks like he did as a four-year varsity letter winner for the Kahoks.

His favorite Kahoks memory came as a sophomore.

"Making a 15-foot birdie on down hill putt at Quincy to save out of the sectional," Brill said. "It was a 15-foot curver with three feet of break and I drained it to go to state my sophomore year. That's what kicked it all off. That's what gave me all the confidence in the world that I could get it done."

ROB COLE, O'FALLON

A senior, Cole capped his prep career with a trip to the state tournament after tying for second at the regional and placing fifth at the sectional. He placed seventh among 60 golfers at the St. Clair County Tournament and tied for 14th among 125 golfers at Quincy. He tied for second place at the South Seven Conference tournament and tied for third at the Edwardsville tournament.

"He's a very experienced, talented golfer. One big improvement from his freshman year was how he managed himself on the golf course. There were only a couple matches when he didn't play well. His performance at state was not up to his usual standards, but as I explained to him, it's better it happened there than in the two previous tournaments."

He played steady steady golf all season and had only round higher than 40 all season. The junior finished the season with a 39.6 average for nine holes.

He came on strong at the right time of the season. He fired a 76 in the Edwardsville Invitational. He followed that up with an 82 at the Mississippi Valley Conference Tournament, as the Triad of golfers won its first MVC crown. At the start of post-season he shot a 78 at the regional and an 80 at the sectional to advance to the state tournament.

"It was real important he advanced this year," Triad golf coach Stu Weider said. "I wish some of the underclassmen could have been there. Chad saw the importance of every part of your game. You really see the kids out there thinking through their shots. He played well and was steady all season."

BRENT JACKSON, BELLEVILLE EAST

After placing third at state as a freshman and fifth as a sophomore, Jackson was expected to contend for the Class AA championship this season. Instead, he shot 79 at the regional and missed qualifying for the sectional by one stroke.

"Brent still had a pretty good year," said East coach Jim Reynolds. "He won the St. Clair County Tournament with a 1-under-par 70 and was outstanding in match play (with a 37.3 average). He had a couple down tournaments, but he had a couple strong ones, too."

"As far as the regional, there might have one day out of 20 where he would have played that bad. But he still tied two school records. He shot 3-under-par on the front nine at Oak Brook and 2-under-par at Clinton Hill (East's home course). That was the same day he had a hole-in-one."

"He's a smart golfer who manages the course really well. When his swing tempo and putting stroke are on, he's as good as anybody in the area."

ADAM ROBINSON, COLLINSVILLE

He finished the season with a 39.2 average for nine holes and was the Kahoks No. 3 golfer all year. He shot a 77 on his home course to advance to the sectional tournament. He capped his senior season as one of two state tournament qualifiers as an individual for the state tournament.

"He had the third-best average on the team," CHS golf coach Mel Heien said. "I think he counted in every match but one. He did his job throughout the season. He had a good end of the year. He qualified for the state tournament. He was a very coachable kid."

JUSTIN BEASTON, GIBAUPT

He averaged an even 38 for nine holes this year. He notched an 82 at the Class A Robinson Sectional, sending him to state.

"He then shot a 76 on day one in Bloomington before recording an 82."

"He had a great year," first-year Hawks coach Mark Crask said. "I and a lot of people knew from Day One, he'd make it to state."

In addition to state, the junior placed and garnered medals at the Nashville and Green-ville tournaments as well as in regional and sectional competition.

"That was one of his goals," Crask said. "He's a smart kid that knows his abilities. From going with him to the driving range, if he's not hitting well with an iron or a wood, he goes and works on it. He knows how to play the game. He's a heckuva golfer."

BEN CROWDER, METRO EAST LUTHERAN

After playing steady all season in match play, the senior struggled during the regional and sectional tournaments but still managed to play well enough to qualify for his first appearance at the state tournament. He fired an 83 on the first day and came back with an 77 on the final day at state.

He had the second-best scoring average (37.3) among all Class A golfers behind team-mate Joe True.

"He was right there with Paul Juenger (Spartan) and Joe True in scoring average and those are two really good golfers," Metro East Lutheran golf coach Kevin Scannell said. "The way he performed in the season really was up to that standard. Joe has really garnered a lot of attention during the year and rightly so. Ben was right there with all year for us. He finished strong. He was one of two people I could count on every time we went out. I knew he and Joe would give me good rounds."

JOE TRUE, METRO EAST LUTHERAN

The junior qualified for his second straight state tournament as an individual. This season, True finished among the top 25 at the Class A tournament. He led all Class A golfers in the area with a 36.5 average for nine holes.

True kicked off the 1997 season with a victory at the Madison County Invitational.

"That focused a lot of attention on him," Scannell said. "The other players in the area knew how good he was already because he sees a lot of them during the summer in the tournaments. He did quite well in those junior PGA events. He was solid as a rock all year. His stroke average was right there at the top either first or second for both A and AA."

"I finished second at the regional. He lost by a stroke to Torrey Weisch. I thought he was really on a roll when he won the sectional. He won it by two strokes even though he double-bogeyed the 17th hole. I was really optimistic about his chances at state."

TORREY WELSCH, FREEBURG

A senior and a four-year varsity veteran, Weisch had 38.1 average and qualified for his third Class A state tournament, tying for 13th place. He won the Cahokia Conference tournament and the regional and placed sixth at the sectional.

"He played well at state, but the only thing that went wrong was that his putter went south on him," said Freeburg coach Gary Henningsen. "He hit 28 of 36 greens. His two-day total (152) was still seven shots better than last year. (When he tied for 18th at 153) and he shot 76 the second day (after an opening round of 80)."

"He was always able to play well under pressure. The bigger the event, the more he rose to the occasion."

Phillip, Sullivan have good memories of Granite City

Voices from the past. Some of them come to haunt.

These called to say hello.

One was Andy Phillip.

Phillip, the best basketball player produced at Granite City High School and, possibly, Granite's greatest student-athlete, is long-since retired and living in California. But he hasn't forgotten his days in Granite City, or the people of the community.

Pat Heston

"I have fond memories of my days in Lincoln Place and Granite City, and of the people there," said Phillip. "I try to get back home once a year. It is special being with old teammates, old friends, and just being back in the community. I want the people of Granite City to know I think of them often."

Phillip anchored the 1940 "Happy Warriors," who won the 1940 IHSAA basketball title with a 24-22 win against Herrin in the championship game. Phillip scored 13 of the Warriors' points in that contest, carrying the team to victory in one of the most impressive individual performances in tournament history.

From Granite City, the all-star went to the University of Illinois, where he became a part of the "Whiz Kids," the Fighting Illini basketball team that was ranked No. 1 in the nation, only to have World War II break up the team... and their dreams.

Phillip's next stop was the NBA, which at the time was known as the BBA. He played with the Chicago Stags from 1947-49, then for Philadelphia and Fort Wayne before heading to Boston, where he played on the Celtics' first championship team. Phillip was an NBA all-star five straight seasons.

Another voice from the past bearing greetings for Granite City residents was Andy Sullivan, coach of the 1960 Warriors state tournament basketball team.

Sullivan, now retired and living in Deltona, Fla., came to GCHS for the 1958-59 basketball season, turning out several good squads, but none as talented or as fun to watch as the 1960 unit — featuring Rich Williams, Bob Price and others — which beat the state's two top-ranked teams before losing in double overtime to West Frankfort in the East St. Louis Super-Sectional.

"My memories of Granite City are all good," said Sullivan. "When we first moved to town, before we bought a house, we spent a lot of time and ate most of our meals at Cam VanBuskirk's. He was a wonderful man and he was a wonderful family, like most of the people in Granite City are wonderful. I think of the people of Granite City often and want to be remembered to them."

Sullivan coached at GCHS when the Southwestern Conference, as well as the area, was a hot-bed of high school basketball in the state, as well as home to colorful and talented coaches: Vergil Fletcher of Collinsville, "Pick" Dehner of East St. Louis, Sherrill Hanks of Alton, Joe Luco of Edwardsville and others. So, greetings one and all from a pair of Granite City greats.

By the way, both Phillip and Sullivan, along with many others, will be featured in the Press Record this December and January as part of a five-part series on Granite City High School basketball teams that reached the state tournament. In addition to the 1940 and 1960 teams, both the 1936 and 1971 squads will be featured, as well as the five Warriors teams that made state between 1911 and 1916. Think of them as voices from the past.

Lancers top Lincoln for 7th straight win

By Toby Carrig
Staff writer

Just when it looked the East St. Louis Lincoln offense could find the end zone, the Belleville East offense kicked into high gear Friday night.

The Lancers scored on their first three possessions of the second half, turning a 14-0 halftime lead into a 35-8 bulge en route to a 42-16 victory Friday night at Township Stadium.

Senior running back Darrell Scruggs and junior quarterback Tony Patterson did most of the damage for the Lancers while senior running back E.J. Nold chipped in some key runs.

Scruggs, who finished the night with 13 carries for 155 yards and two touchdowns, dashed 59 yards for a touchdown on the first play from scrimmage in the second half.

Lincoln responded with a 69-yard drive, capped by Kevin Edwards' 19-yard pass to Jason Hicks for a touchdown. The two-point conversion run by Edwards made the score 20-8.

But Belleville East broke the game open with a 68-yard drive on seven running plays and an enochment penalty against the Tigers. Key plays were a 18-yard gain on a late option pitch from Patterson to Scruggs and 14 more yards on a Scruggs' carry for the second of his three touchdowns. He also ran for the two-point conversion and a 28-8 advantage.

After Lincoln went three plays and punted, the Lancers came right back with a 43-yard, three-play drive. On the fourth, Patterson kept this time and raced through the Lincoln defense for a score. David Rahn's kick made the score 35-8 with 2:53 to play in the third quarter.

Belleville East tacked on more TD in the third quarter when senior defensive lineman Jeremy Halbert scooped up a Tigers fumble and raced 24 yards for the touchdown. Rahn's kick made it 42-8 with 20.6 seconds to play in the third.

Lincoln added its last touchdown with 4:17 to play in the game when running back Zeina Sanders collected a pass from Edwards and galloped in to complete a 16-yard play. Sanders ran for the two points as well.

The Granite City freshman football team completed a 9-0-0 season.

scrimmage to give Granite City a 12-0 lead.

The Warriors were in command 20-0 at the half.

Graham picked up an extra pair of touchdowns in the third period, scoring on 11- and 31-yard runs as Granite moved ahead 40-0 after three.

Edwardsville added a meaningless score with 23 seconds to play the game.

"We've got size and speed," said Luehmann. "And this group has learned the game very well this year. Coach (Greg) Garland did a great job with the defense. Teams didn't score many points against us, and that is great at the freshman level because it's hard to learn defense right away."

The defense allowed only 65 points on the season, shutting out two foes and holding five others to one touchdown.

Meanwhile, the Warriors' potent offense was racking up 334 points, scoring 40 or more points in six of nine contests.

last year, and they were shooting for it again this year," Luehmann added. "They have the potential to be a real good team, if they work at it, if they hit the weights and if they will commit themselves to improving."

"This group was undefeated

Traveler's Abroad opens with news from England

Traveler's Abroad opened its 1997-98 year with dinner at Jerry's Cafeteria in late September with 37 members and guests present. Dr. Alice Purdes, president, welcomed the group. Officers for the upcoming year were discussed with Dr. Purdes remaining as president; Helen Lilly, as treasurer; Barbara Williams as publicity; and Kathy Smith was elected as the new secretary.

Winners of free Dinners at Jerry's were Emma Schoen and Marieann Hankla.

Speakers for the ensuing year will be Mary Donna and Don Shaffner. In October, speaking on their trip to Australia and New Zealand. China will be Al Pace's subject at the group's Christmas party in late November. In January, Col. Schweizer will speak on Alaska, and in February, Barbara Williams will discuss Portugal and the Madeira Islands.

March and April speakers are yet to be determined. The evening's program was presented by Charles and Eleanor Schweizer who had an amazing trip about which to relate. They have very recently returned from a four-week trip to several countries in Europe and which entailed a train ride through the English Channel back to England. He said it was a very fast ride until they were nearing England when the train was required to slow down to just 60 miles per hour.

They stayed in a hotel near Kensington Park, next to Hyde Park, which had very small rooms; there was almost no space for luggage and one could not put it in the hallways for they were very small also.

Proceeding to the Isle of Man to visit friends, on that fateful Sunday morning when the world was shocked by the death of Diana, so were the Schweizers and their friends. All seven of them stayed glued to the T.V. until Church time. Appropriate prayers were offered by the minister for the families.

Slides were shown of the crowds and flowers at St. Paul's Cathedral. Harrod's Department Store was also smothered in flowers. Walking toward the palace, the slides showed flowers everywhere. The Schweizers were watching the crowds and almost got penned in as a new protective fence was erected.

On the following Tuesday, Charles and Eleanor took an all-day tour of London which was very difficult. Many streets were closed off to traffic and over half of the scheduled stops could not be made because of the crowds or else they were closed.

Slides showed the noontime ceremony of the changing of the guards at Buckingham Palace. When the guards marched up to the main gate, the crowd would not give way for them. They proceeded to go to a side entrance for the ceremony and continued to do the same each day.

Additional slides showed Westminster Abbey as being closed for they were running wires and cables in preparation for the T.V. coverage of the funeral.

The Schweizers proceeded to Scotland and in Edinburgh at the Castle there were flowers and at the Palace of Holyroodhouse, the Queen's official residence in Scotland, the flowers stretched out almost 300 feet from the gates in front of the palace.

Wherever they went, Diana was the main topic of conversation — even on the Orkney Islands off the coast of Scotland.

The Schweizers brought back many newspapers headlining the events. The first paper printed said that the Princess was hurt but that her escort had been killed. It wasn't long until another edition came out. The papers, Pictures of Diana and her family members completely filled many papers.

It was reported that $50 million had been spent on flowers. The Schweizers said that can- (See TRIP, Page 6B)

Michaeloff attends council

Dr. Goni Michaeloff, Grant Writer at Granite City Community Unit School District #9 in Granite City is among 117 educators from around the world attending the 1st Legislative Council of Phi Delta Kappa International this weekend, Oct. 24-26.

The educators, area coordinators and members of the Board of Directors of Phi Delta Kappa International, are convening to conduct the business of the professional education fraternity and to take part in the Conference on Advocates for the Public Schools.

Presiding over the general sessions will be the Phi Delta Kappa International President George Thomas, associate professor, Mississippi State University at Meridian.

At the conclusion of the council, the gavel passed to James Fogarty, executive director for instructional programs, Eastern Suffolk BOCES, Patchogue, New York. A Saturday luncheon was sponsored by the Phi Delta Kappa Educational Foundation.

Keynote speakers for the conference included Jonathan Kozol, author of Amazing Grace: The Lives of Children and the Conscience of a Nation; Bruce Biddle, co-author with David Berliner of

The Manufactured Crisis: Myths, Fraud, and the Attack on America's Public Schools; and John Goodlad, author of In Praise of Education. As part of the conference, the National PTA and the Center on Education Policy in Washington, D.C., will join Phi Delta Kappa in sponsoring a national forum on the need for public schools.

Phi Delta Kappa International promotes education through research, service, and leadership, with particular emphasis on publicly supported education. Its membership includes professional educators from all fields of education.

Helpful tips keep new, older cars looking fantastic

- Whether you own a new vehicle, or a not-so new vehicle, you want the finish to maintain a high quality look. Here are some simple tips to follow to help ensure your finish will look its best.
- Wash off dirt prior to washing a car. Any dirt that is rubbed into the surface can cause scratches.
- Wash your car in the shade using cool water and a mild detergent.
- Rinse off as much soil as possible before washing. Allow water to sheet off the car by taking the nozzle off the hose when rinsing.
- Clean the tires first, then the wheels. Cleaning the wheels is important since the brake dust and road salt can cause irreversible corrosion.
- Wash in straight lines, not circles, and use overlapping strokes to make less standing water for you to dry off.
- Wipe it with a damp or wet cloth, not dry.
- Avoid parking under trees which may drop sap.
- On newer model cars, do not attempt to "polish" light scratches. Most new vehicles have a clear coat finish that can be damaged if you do not use the proper method.
- Never wax a car in direct sunlight. If your car's metal temperature is too hot, the chemicals in the wax can prematurely damage your car's finish.
- Get a complete detail once a year.
- When washing your vehicle by hand, take the time to run your wash mitt along the inside bottom edge of the doors, lift gate, hood and trunk. These areas trap dirt and moisture causing premature rusting.
- Avoid brush style car washes as they can cause dirt to scratch the car's surface.
- High-powered sprays in car washes often blast grit into the car's finish, eventually wearing down paint. Use the lowest possible setting when using the "do-it-yourself" car washes.
- Don't place grocery bags, luggage or other objects on the top or trunk to avoid scratching the finish.

AUTO FACTS CHECK BRAKES & SAVE $

AUTO TECHNICIANS SAY MOTORISTS DELAY BRAKE WORK TOO LONG. EXCESSIVE WEAR CAN RUIN MOTORS AND DRUMS, DOUBLE COST OF REPAIR.

FOR SAFE DRIVING, CHECK BRAKES TWICE A YEAR. LOOK FOR WORN LININGS ON PADS AND SHOES, FLUID LEAKS, DRY OR WORN WHEEL BEARINGS.

Certification helps identify competent auto technicians

Nonprofit group tests skills of individual mechanics

The task of finding a competent auto technician is becoming a bit easier, thanks to the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence (ASE), a nonprofit group that tests and certifies the technical competence of individual automotive technicians.

With more than 350,000 currently certified technicians on its rosters, ASE is the only automotive certification group that is both national in scope and industrywide. ASE-certified technicians can be found at every type of repair facility, from dealerships to independent garages.

ASE spells good news for consumers

Prior to taking ASE certification tests, many technicians attend training classes or study after work in order to brush up on their knowledge. By passing difficult, national tests, ASE-certified technicians prove their technical competency to themselves, to their employers and to their customers.

ASE certifies only the technical competence of individual technicians, not the shop, its business practices, or the ethics of management and employees. But it stands to reason that shop owners who encourage their mechanics to become certified technicians will be concerned about the other aspects of their business. Likewise, because ASE's program is voluntary, technicians who have gone to the effort to earn ASE certification can be counted on to have a strong sense of pride in accomplishment.

How does ASE certification work?

Automotive Service Excellence certifies only the technical competence of individual technicians, not the shop, its business practices, or the ethics of management and employees. ASE techs can be found in every type of repair facility.

More than 100,000 technicians take ASE certification tests each May and November at more than 600 national locations. Technicians who pass at least one exam in their specialty and fulfill the two-year work experience requirement become ASE-certified; those who pass a battery of exams earn Master Technician status.

There are more than two dozen specialty exams covering all major areas of repair. There are eight tests for automotive technicians alone: engine repair, engine performance, electrical/electronic systems, brakes, heating and air conditioning, suspension and steering, manual drive train and axles, and automatic transmissions. There are also exams for collision repair/refinish technicians, engine machinists, parts specialists and medium/heavy truck technicians.

Certification is not for life. ASE requires its technicians to recertify every five years to keep up with technology. All ASE credentials have expiration dates.

How to find ASE-certified technicians

Repair establishments with at least one ASE-certified technician are permitted to display the ASE sign and otherwise publicize their certified employee(s). Each ASE technician is issued personalized credentials listing his/her exact area(s) of certification and an appropriate shoulder insignia. Technicians are also issued wallet-sized certificates that their employers often post in the customer-service area.

Choosing an ASE-certified technician

As is the case with doctors, automotive technicians often specialize. Because ASE offers certification in all major technical areas of auto repair and service, it's wise to ask the shop owner or service manager specifically for a technician who is ASE certified in the appropriate area, say, brakes, engine repair or air conditioning.

In short, the ASE program offers consumers objective information about the technical competency of individual technicians that they can use in their search for satisfactory automotive repair and service.

For free information about how to select a repair shop, send a business-sized, self-addressed stamped envelope to: ASE Glove Box Brochure, Dept. CCC-895, P.O. Box 347, Herndon, Va. 22070.

Good, proper care means longer car life

Remember when we thought about trading the old car in when it got to be about 6 years old? That's what people did in the mid-1970s.

New car fever has calmed down considerably as new car prices soar, with an average new car sale, including tax, now beyond $20,000, average car age now is 8.3 years.

A new Ford in 1994 cost $785 complete with heater and bumper guards. That's the car, incidentally, driven by Bonnie and Clyde when they made their getaway from Topeka. They drove it 75,000 miles in 23 days before their fatal ambush in Louisiana.

Whether or not you plan to run it forever, as some people vow they'll do, or keep the car just a little longer, taking care of needed maintenance is a must. Generally, your most economical transportation is the vehicle you already own. So fixing it up makes good economic sense.

It certainly pays in terms of safety and driving efficiency, emphasizes the Car Care Council, which advocates investing in needed maintenance a few thousand miles too soon rather than too late. Why jeopardize

THIS IS HOW A DESPERATE DRUG ADDICT SEES YOUR CHILD.

He doesn't see the energetic, young mind that is underneath the cassette recorder. He doesn't see the music lover in the kid who has made the cassette recorder and the jacket and how to get the money for his music.

But the drug addict's real blindness is that he never sees the heartbreak he will cause when he knows your child long on the street.

You must fight back. You can make a difference. Start now by calling 1-800-WE PREVENT and we'll send you information on successful ways to join with others to protect your children from crime in your neighborhood.

A GUIDE TO FILTER MAINTENANCE

Filter	Function	Recommended Replacement
Oil	Protects quality of engine lubricating oil by trapping and holding contaminants from both external sources (environmental) and internal sources (result of internal combustion).	Every 3,000 to 4,000 miles with every oil change.
Air	Helps assure clean air flow into carburetor or fuel injection system by trapping and holding dirt, insects, vegetable matter, soot and moisture.	Every 10,000 to 15,000 miles and with every tune-up.
Fuel	Removes contaminants from gasoline and diesel fuel both at the tank and in the engine compartment.	Engine compartment filter, every 10,000 to 15,000 miles and every tune-up. Tank filter not normally serviced.
Transmission	Keeps automatic transmission fluid clean, which is crucial for energy transfer, cooling, lubrication and extended life.	Fluid and filter should be changed every 12 months or 12,000 to 15,000 miles.
PCV	Assures efficient functioning of positive crankcase ventilation system. Prevents harmful elements from entering engine.	Check at every oil change. Replace every 10,000 to 15,000 miles.

Recommended replacement intervals are guidelines only.
Consult owner's manual for your vehicle and driving conditions.

Car systems, components need seasonal attention

The joys of fall! Doing those chores you've put off until the milder weather. Suddenly it's fall and you realize your faithful car has been deprived of attention, still running on dirty oil and aging spark plugs. It's filthy inside and out, including the cooling system.

Two reasons for maintenance neglect are the popularity of self-service gas pumps (which leaves under-hood checks to the driver) and lack of understanding of what checks and services need to be done periodically.

Systems and components usually requiring seasonal attention include:

Cooling System:

- Flush, drain and replace antifreeze
- Test, inspect and replace needed parts.

Engine:

- Diagnostic and tune-up services as needed.

- Oil and filter change (check all fluids).

Tires/wheels/brakes

- Rotate and inspect tires.
- Balance and check alignment.
- Inspect braking system.

Vision

- Replace/aim headlights.
- Replace worn windshield wiper blades.

Appearance

- Clean and polish/wax exterior.
- Clean interior, repair/replace damaged or worn fabrics.

Vehicles' lights are critical safety factor
Drivers often unaware of problems

How often have you had to brake suddenly with another driver right on your tail? Your eyes dart to the rearview mirror, hoping he'll see your brake lights in time.

What if your brake lights aren't working properly? There's better than a 50/50 chance they're not, according to figures from a survey by American Automobile Club of Cleveland, Ohio.

They found 55 percent of vehicles checked had brake lights that needed some kind of repairs. This was by far the most prevalent mechanical discrepancy found during a Car Care Clinic.

Bob Knop, manager of the Club's Approved Auto Repair Department, which conducts the clinics, says most problems were found with the third brake light, generally because of a burned out bulb.

Our subconscious response to lighting

"We've grown to depend on lighting to signal our intentions," says Jack Oliver, manager for the GE Automotive Lighting Division. "We respond almost subconsciously to fellow motorists' turn signals, brake lights or emergency flashers. It's a form of communication as vital to driving as road signs and center land marking. When they're missing we're unaware of the danger ahead."

Another common lighting problem, according to Oliver, is found on vehicles with four light systems with separate units for high and low beams. Because the high beam lamps are replaced less often the lens is subjected to years of abuse from pebbles and other road debris. Eventually hair-line cracks develop and moisture works its way inside, corroding the reflector. The unit may appear to be working OK but it is not putting out as much light as it should.

"We respond almost subconsciously to fellow motorists' turn signals, brake lights or emergency flashers. It's a form of communication as vital to driving as road signs and center land marking. When they're missing we're unaware of the danger ahead."

Jack Oliver
manager, GE Automotive Lighting

"Some day it may be wide spread practice in the U.S., as it is in Canada and Sweden, that the headlights be turned on whenever the car is driven. It's a proven safety measure and already is the law in the U.S. on two-wheeled vehicles where lights automatically turn on with the ignition switch. Obviously, they are more visible to other drivers," says Oliver.

"An Avis traveler safety study showed vehicles with daytime running lights (DRL) had a better accident record than vehicles not so equipped." However, lights are worthless if they are not working, Oliver emphasizes. All exterior lights should be checked periodically, not only for burned out bulbs and flashers but also for poor illumination of headlamps due to damaged reflectors.

The best way to check your system is to have one person turn on the lights, the emergency flashers and turn signals and apply the brakes while someone else walks around the vehicle to see that everything is working.

It's also a good habit during every gas fill-up to check for dirt (and ice) on all lenses, front and rear. To help maintain cleanliness you can apply a glass treatment such as RAIN-X to help repel rain, sleet, and snow.

Proper headlight aim is important

At one time or another, most of us have been blinded by the glare of oncoming headlights. You flash your high beams to signal the oncoming driver to dim his lights. He responds by turning on his high beams, indicating it was low beams that had been blinding you. They were aimed too high.

Delaying brake work, for example, not only is dangerous, it costs too much due to excessive wear of rotors and/or drums. A neglected engine is inefficient and vulnerable to rapid wear. Driving with worn shocks or struts affects both comfort and safety.

Are you sure your headlights are not blinding you? They were aimed too high.

Are you sure your headlights are not blinding others? Here, from GE, is the recommended way to check headlight aim:

- 1) Put your car on a 35-40 foot stretch of flat or evenly sloped pavement such as a driveway facing a wall or garage door.
- 2) Shine your low beams on the door from 2 to 3 feet away and outline the bright spots on the door with a pencil or tape.
- 3) Back the car to about 25 feet from the door. The top of the low beams should shine no higher than the top of the marks on the door or lower than the center of the marked circle. If your vehicle has four headlights, the center of the high beam (the inner or lower tow lights) should align with the top of the low-beam marks.

If you have only two headlights, the high beams are automatically aimed when you aim the low beams.

For most accurate aiming take your vehicle to a professional. If, on the other hand, you're a "do-it-yourselfer" follow these instructions from GE.

Remove the outer trim for access to the adjustment screws. To raise the beam, turn the top adjustment screw clockwise; counter clockwise to lower the beam. Turn the side adjustment screw clockwise to move the beam to the right and counter-clockwise to move it to the left.

Bring each beam into its final position by turning the adjusting screws clockwise so the headlamp will be held against its tension springs when the operation is completed.

If your lights continue to be out of adjustment, consult a service technician.

For The Last 12 years, Memorial's Had the Grip on Arthritis Care.

In 1985, the Arthritis Service of Southern Illinois was introduced at Memorial to put you in touch with professionals who can help you get a grip on your pain. For the last 12 years, this outpatient diagnostic clinic has helped a large number of residents from all over Southwestern Illinois who suffer from musculoskeletal and joint problems. Convenience, personalized attention and experienced professionals have differentiated the Arthritis Service from other look-alikes which have come and gone since 1985.

The service includes:

Your visit to the Arthritis Service includes an examination by an orthopedic surgeon and an internist. It also may include examination or consultation with a physical therapist, orthopedic nurse, occupational therapist, dietitian and social worker. X-rays and lab tests may be ordered as well.

Fees are charged according to services received. Examinations are by appointment only. Physician referral is not required. For your convenience, a copy of your evaluation report will be sent to your physician.

Trip

 dies, balloons, and bears of all sizes were everywhere.
 Additional sides showed various gates of the palaces and people lined up to present their flowers. There were all kinds of people and ages — many family groups. Flowers were inside and outside the fences — people were trying to find some place to put them.
 Flags all over the country were at half-staff. There was a commotion about no flag flying at Buckingham Palace and eventually, a flag was flown there. Col. Schweizer said that unless the Queen is in residence, no flag flies there.
 When she returned from Scotland to her residence, her personal flag was flown.
 When one thinks about such a State funeral, Col. Schweizer said, he wondered where they got all the extra police from? Where did they get all the portable fencing? The newspapers said that six million people were expected to be there but actually less than a million showed up. Arrangements were continually being changed.
 As the Schweizers were eating lunch in a pub, they met a lady from Springfield, Ill. who was also eating there. Col. Schweizer, active in the S.A.R. group found another S.A.R. member from the U.S. standing on a corner.
 A closing picture showed two ravens at the Tower of London. Legend says if the ravens depart from this area, it will herald the fall of England. There are supposed to be about a half-dozen ravens still there.
 Others attending the meeting were Josephine and Frank Beatty, Betty Duft, Georgia Enzke, Fred Feldworth, Gordon Hank, Betty Townsend, Pat Thomas, Mary Swan, Helen Stumpe, Eunice and Julianne Hatcher, Gen and Joe Hill, Ray Kinder, Jeanette and Charles James, Tomea Kirchoff, Marguerite Lexow, Jewel Monogue, Mary St. Clair, Rose Schmidt, Marloet Schock, Isabella Southwick, and Violet and Stanley Stimac.

WRITE AN AD

Capture the reader's attention with larger headlines, bold type and symbols. Tell them up front what you're selling or seeking. Describe what is unique about your item, adding details such as color and condition. Avoid abbreviations; they make your ad harder to read and therefore less effective. Include your phone number and the hours you are available. Always include the price; it will increase your responses.

CANCEL AN AD

Deadlines for ad cancellations are identical to deadlines for ad placement. You may cancel an ad in person or over the phone. To cancel an ad, phone (314) 966-FAST (3278) or 1-800-766-FAST.

RNs/LPNs/CMTs & CNAs
Life Care Center of St. Louis (LCC), in affiliation with St. Louis University Hospital, has been recruiting RNs, LPNs, CMTs & CNAs to work in our Sub-Acute Center of Excellence. We understand it is very difficult to decide upon a place to apply for work by just reading a recruitment ad among the many you see each day in the health care industry, therefore we will host a RECRUITMENT OPEN HOUSE ON NOV 7, 1997 from 9am-5pm to tour our facility and meet our staff. Lunch and other refreshments will be provided. By getting to know us personally, we are confident you will be interested in a career with Life Care Centers of America, the largest privately held provider in America today. In order for you to be considered the premier sub-acute provider, we must recruit the very best professionals. If you fill our profile, we are prepared to offer you an excellent hiring package commensurate with your experience and qualifications. If you have any questions or need more information, please call Denise McVey, Director of Nursing at 771-2100, EOE.

Right of way efforts may lead to extensions

By Dan Yount
Staff writer

A mass transit advocacy group plans to purchase or lease two Union Pacific Railroad Co. rights of way, which could lead to future Metrolink extensions, a group member says.

The group, Citizens for Modern Transit, is negotiating with Union Pacific, said Tom Shrout, CMT executive director. Although the negotiations are preliminary, Shrout said he's confident CMT can either purchase or lease the rights of way.

The rights of way could be used to extend Metrolink west to Chesterfield and south to Lemay, Shrout said.

CMT contacted Union Pacific in mid-September when members learned the rights of way might be available, he said.

One runs northwest from Interstate 170 and Olive Boulevard in Olivette, through

METROLINK

Maryland Heights, south near Creve Coeur Mill Road and into Chesterfield.

The other travels from the Metrolink station on Grand Boulevard just south of Interstate 64 (Highway 40) south to Interstate 55 near Loughborough Avenue.

Whatever arrangement is worked out, Union Pacific would continue to use the rights of way, each of which includes railroad track, Shrout said.

Railroad companies and light-rail systems share rights of way in other parts of the country, he said.

CMT is a nonprofit group that supports public transportation.

The East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, a regional planning agency, recently approved a planned Metrolink extension from the Central West End to Clayton and then south to Interstate 44.

CMT purchased for $15 in 1992 a right of way from the former Terminal Railroad Co. That right of way, which does not have a track, runs along I-170 between Page Avenue and I-44.

CMT plans to donate that right of way to the Bi-State Development Agency, which operates Metrolink, for the extension from Clayton to I-44, Shrout said.

"Our efforts go a long way to ensure that future Metrolink lines to West County and south St. Louis and South County can be developed," Shrout said.

"Anyone who does not believe a plan for Metrolink expansion exists should view this as evidence of our community's commitment to provide light rail to the region," he said.

Officials make Prop M pledge

By Dan Yount
Staff writer

Two-thirds of the revenue generated by a proposed quarter-cent sales tax hike to fund public transportation would be used to expand Metrolink, some local officials have pledged.

The remaining third would be used to operate the light-rail system, they said.

The proposed tax hike, Proposition M, will be on the Nov. 4 ballot in St. Louis and St. Louis County.

Despite the pledge, the ballot says funds from the measure could be used for "public transportation purposes." It does not specifically mention Metrolink.

The pledge was made Wednesday by St. Louis County Executive George "Buz" Westfall; St. Louis Mayor Clarence Harmon; St. Louis County Council Chairman Charlie Dooley, D-1st District; St. Louis Board of Aldermen President Francis Slay; and Bi-State Development Agency Chairwoman Betty Van Uum.

Westfall said the announcement was made so there would be no misunderstanding among residents as to how Proposition M revenue would be used.

Voters in the city and county in 1994 approved a quarter-cent sales tax hike, also called Proposition M, to fund public transportation.

If Proposition M is approved Nov. 4, it is expected to generate $41 million annually.

The revenue would be used to extend Metrolink from the Central West End to Clayton, then south to Oakville and north to Florissant, said Larry Mooney, Westfall's executive assistant.

The money also would fund another Metrolink extension, and Westfall is asking for one west into Chesterfield, Mooney said.

"We want to see the light-rail system expanded dramatically," he said.

Youngster receives medal

By Aileen Hill
Staff writer

Jenni Wilson, who is credited with saving her grandfather's life, was presented with the Girls Scout Medal of Honor Saturday afternoon at her Collinsville home.

Lester Dale Wilson, Jenni's grandfather, was asleep in his house at 1725 California when it caught fire last Jan. 6.

Jenni lives across the street with her parents, Donna and Gordon Wilson. She was preparing for bed when she noticed flickering in a window of her grandfather's house.

"She saw the flickering and almost turned over to go to sleep," said Donna Wilson. "If she had not seen the fire and told us then it would have been too late."

Her mother called 911 to report the fire, while her father crawled through the smoke-filled house to help his father.

"They weren't out long and the windows in the living room, where he had fallen asleep starting blowing," said Donna. "He just wouldn't have made it."

Fire official suspect electrical wiring caused the fire that destroyed the house.

Ironically, said Donna Wilson, this isn't the first time Jenni and her grandfather have had to help each other.

When Jenni was a year old, Lester had to perform CPR on her after she had gone into convulsions.

"She was so sick with an ear infection and had gone to sleep in my lap with a bottle," she said. "She had thrown up in her sleep and was (choking) in convulsions. My husband took her across the street and her grandfather performed CPR."

"He says they're even."

Memorial's EMERGENCY CARDIAC CARE... still here when you need us most.

Our Emergency Department physicians, Medical Staff cardiologists, and your personal physician work closely together to meet your emergency cardiac care needs 24 hours a day --- everyday --- when you need it.

Regardless of how others package or promote cardiac services, we still prefer to keep things simple - but high tech... and highly effective. When you need emergency cardiac care, you can count on this area's largest emergency services provider. We offer:

- ☒ Specially-trained emergency physicians from Belleville Emergency Physicians - treating emergencies, including heart attacks, is their full-time specialty.
- ☒ Experienced Medical Staff cardiologists to work with your personal physician to diagnose and treat your cardiac and related medical problems.
- ☒ Skilled registered nurses --- certified in Advanced Cardiac Life Support --- most are Trauma Nurse Specialists.

☒ This area's largest and busiest Emergency Department with the specialized facilities and equipment needed for your care.

☒ The modern cath labs, state-of-the-art cardiac diagnostic testing, and latest cardiac interventional technologies you've come to expect from Memorial - available when your cardiologist and personal physician need it for you. After all, we introduced high-tech interventional cardiology procedures to this area in the early '80s.

Here when you need us... low key, high-tech, highly-effective care from this area's leader in emergency services.
